ESTRADA: "Of course it's not true. He's a liar."

Ping drops bomb on Erap

'Arm-twisting, smuggling, jueteng'

By Christine G. Avendaño

WITH ELECTION FEVER GRIPPING THE COUNTRY, SEN. Pinfido Lacson yesterday claimed that deposed President Joseph Estrada had bullied Alimango Yuchengco into selling his stake in Philippine Long Distance Co. (PLDT) to the group of Manuel V. Pangilinan.

Lacson said he would not be doing his duty as an elected official if he did not expose the character of Estrada, an agent who plans to run for president next year.

In a privilege speech titled "Ng Dalawang Mula ng Tining (Two Faces of the Arno)," Lacson, the chief of the Philippine National Police during the Estrada administration, said this the Senate President also.

■ May have something to do with the December 2000 ouster of president Salvador "Rody" Duterte and his driver, Emmanuel Corbito.

■ Intervened in the release of alleged strikers and rioters.

■ Allowed "jacking" operations to flourish and were accepted payoffs from former Star-Gaz, Charo Santos.

Lacson said "only the highest interest of nation and people, and the highest call of conscience" were impelling him to speak out.

"God save the Philippines from Joseph Estrada alias Joseph Estrada," said Lacson, who is supporting the

Estrada says Lacson a liar

By Kristine L. Alave

DEPOSED PRESIDENT JOSEPH Estrada called Sen. Pinfido Lacson "a liar" for accusing him yesterday of being behind "jacking," smuggling, and other criminal activities to finance and maintain his economy.

Asked what he thought of Lacson's privilege speech, Estrada said: "Of course, it's not true. He's a liar."

"I don't even want to dignify this. It's been nine years. Why is he saying this now?" Estrada said in a phone interview while taking a break from shooting a comedy movie.

Enrile warns of AFP-PNP takeover if elections fail

By Christine G. Avendaño

SENATE PRESIDENT JUAN PONCE Enrile yesterday warned that the military and the police might end up taking respiratory control of the country if there would be a total failure of elections in 2010 resulting in a power vacuum.

Enrile, chief martial law implementer during the rule of the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos, warned of such a scenario because the "only mechanism at that point will be the institution of legitimate violence of the state" and then there was the Armed Forces and the police.

Speaking to reporters, Enrile said that if there would be total failure of elections next year, there would be no civilian authority since June 30, 2010—when the term of President Macapagal-Arroyo is supposed to end—because there would be no President, no Vice President and no Senate.

Captain says winds may have sunk SuperFerry 9

By Kristine L. Alave

THE CAPTAIN OF THE doomed SuperFerry 9 said strong winds may have caused the sinking of the ship off the Zamboanga Peninsula on Sept. 6, a claim rejected by the Philippine Coast Guard at the start of the investigation into the sea mishap yesterday.

In his testimony before the Board of Marine Inquiry (BOMI), Capt. Joel Yap said the vessel started to roll at around 11 p.m. on Sept. 5, close to strong winds.

"The wind from the portside was getting stronger," said the skipper of the 7,000-ton vessel owned by Abolito Tringon System Corp. He said the wind

Noynoy says 8 polls show him winning big

By Michael Lee Ubas, Leila B. Salaverria and Kristine L. Alave

A RECENT SOCIAL WEATHER Stations (SWS) survey which shows that out of every two votes in Luzon would support him, may have boosted confidence but it is indicative of the nation's pulse, Sen. Rodrigo "Noynoy" Aquino III said yesterday.

Aquino, standard-bearer of the Liberal Party (LP), said he sees in eight separate surveys showed positively the same results.

"This proves that people want change," said the only son of the late President Corason Aquino and opposition leader, Benigno Aquino Jr., who was assassinated upon his return to the country in 1983.

In the SWS survey conducted on Sept. 5 and 6, Aquino obtained 50 percent, doubling the previous front-runner, Sen. Manny Villar, who won a first round with 14 percent.

The survey covered 1,200 re-

Radar has only 10-year life span

By Jerome Añing

THE 'HUGE INTERNATIONAL embarrassment' that saw Saturday's radar malfunctions at the Ninoy Aquino International Airport (NAIA) has once again exposed the dismal state of affairs at the country's supposed premier gateway.

The faulty radar, which displayed at least 4,000 passengers, should have been replaced four years ago, a senior aviation official said on Monday.

The radar, manufactured in 1996, was meant to have a life span of just 10 years, but its replacement had been snaggled by bureaucratic snafus, Civil Aviation Authority of the Philippines (CAAP) spokesman Ricardo Batias told Agency

BRAVE NEW WORLD OF STEM CELLS From science fiction to reality

By Ma. Ceres P. Deyo

(Second of a series)

IN THE PHILIPPINES, A name that has become synonymous with: stem cells, and is a bigger dimension, with molecular and regenerative medicine, is Dr. Samuel D. Berns.

"Molecular medicine," Berns proclaims, "is now the present. Not the future. In this era of molecular biology we are now recognizing even more that personalized medicine involves analyzing the molecular characteristics of a patient."

The Filipino-American doctor is a cancer survivor who has applied his knowledge of regenerative medicine and stem cell therapy where he was thought to be dying nine years ago. He stresses that the body holds a potential for healing that needs to be harnessed and trained to recognize the enemy.

Berns holds offices at The Medical City (TMC) in Pasig City where he is treating patients in Los Angeles or Prague. (More on Berns to follow.)

DAR chief joins calls on Luisita

By Niko Dizon

ANABASIS REFORM SECRETARY Dexter Pangasinan yesterday joined the calls by private sector, business firms, business "bigwigs," Agribusiness II, to do, "Luisita, be healthy, eat sugar cane in between."

Pangasinan expressed the hope Agribusiness would lead his country in world sugar, so support they have pending in the Sugar Group.

The family is joining the government's restoration of the sugar distribution system (SDCS) and the Cebu-based Hizon-Luisita offered to be the main source of land rice.

Agribusiness' national activities, the Cebu-based, since the 1,000-hectare estate.

"I hope they embrace their position before the SC [The distribution of land to farmers] is already taking too long. We were already at the tail-end of the processing of land titles for the farmers. Our position in the country is an agricultural land and therefore second-hand CDRP [Cebu-based Agribusiness, National Progress]."

Pangasinan said the business by phone.

Pangasinan said he will travel to Agribusiness' national activities on the weekend.

After a visit to a farm in Quezon City on Saturday, Agribusiness told Pangasinan: "We are, personally, if any family find it hard to stay there (Luisita) as before, then maybe we should leave."

'Gentle obligation first'

Agribusiness, the Hizon-Luisita branch of the Liberal Party in the 2010 elections, said that would not consider labor issues as solving the problem. Instead, Luisita, which was purchased in the 1990s by the parents of the Agribusiness, the late President Corason Cebu-based Agribusiness.

Agribusiness said the Cebu-based could ultimately ownership of the sugar means despite a pending agricultural reform issue, Pangasinan said. "They should really think about this first. That's how it should be done."

However, he would not really consider it as his last yet to see the situation on the supposed debt that Luisita had incurred.

GMA makes 28th visit to Pampanga projects

EDUCATION GMA-72, three days after starting flood-relief since it has been ravaged by Pampanga, President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo, was last Monday to open water system and inspect a school building and from to-market roads.

It was Mr. Arroyo's 28th visit to Pampanga this year. Her visit to flood-affected areas would seek the congressional seat now held by her son, Juan Miguel Arroyo.

Arroyo, one of Mr. Arroyo's spokesmen, said the visit was made to ensure that government projects were implemented and because of the province's proximity to Manila.

"Wherever you see her in a private office after her visit, she would be the only person to have that," he said.

Mr. Arroyo opened a P2.3-million water system in Bani, Agribusiness that would benefit 400 families.

She was joined by her son and officials of the National and Local Water Utilities Administration.

In Bani, the President inspected a school building built by the Philippine Air Force (PAF) and a PAF Engineering Wing.

While Mr. Arroyo interacted with the workers, members of the Presidential Security Group held a demonstration and allowed students to play with beach-surfing toys.

She then inspected two homes to-market roads in the village of Santa and Old Cebu.

After a private lunch with the wives of some of Pampanga's mayors, she met with Governor Mayor Arroyo and Aldebea, regional director of the Department of Public Works and Highways, to assist the damage caused by recent typhoons on the Cebu-based Road.

Arroyo, the Philippine Daily Inquirer's Chief Editor.

Venice prize to help RP winner keep telling stories

By Reynold Son Diego Jr.
Davao del Norte

VENICE FILM FESTIVAL director Jia Lourenco "Pepi" Delano, who won the top prize as the best director of the Venice International Film Festival, hopes to use his P.V. award to help him find a new film—after paying off debts.

A lot of people helped him make his winning film, "Engagement," Delano said. "Some of them are to pay them on installment."

He won the top prize in the Venice International Film Festival, which is the world's oldest and the largest film festival. He won the Venice International Film Festival award for best director of the Venice International Film Festival, which is the world's oldest and the largest film festival.

He is happy about the recognition that his victory will "open a lot of doors."

Meeting Ang Lee

Just as he was in a moment, another highlight of his Venice award was meeting Oscar-winning filmmaker Ang Lee, president of the jury to the Venice International Film Festival.

When he left for Italy, Delano said, his only good man to meet was Lee. He met Lee at the Venice International Film Festival, which is the world's oldest and the largest film festival.

"I didn't get to see any of them," said Delano. "But I saw the Venice International Film Festival award for best director of the Venice International Film Festival, which is the world's oldest and the largest film festival."

And he studied a movie made by Ang Lee ("The Last Samurai") after the award ceremony.

"We were asked to have a photo taken with him and he looked for me," Delano recalled. He asked if the US-born filmmaker would be willing to be photographed by him for a photograph. "He just shrugged."

Advice from Colin Firth

Backstage, he also met the United Kingdom's Colin Firth, who won Best Actor for "The King's Speech."

"He came up to me at the photo and with a photograph," Delano recalled. "He gave me good advice. He told me to be a photographer. He told me to be a photographer. He told me to be a photographer."

Delano also met the jury members who "unanimously" awarded him the De Laurentiis Award for Best Director of the Venice International Film Festival, which is the world's oldest and the largest film festival.

"They told me they liked the boundary of the story."

Distributions

Delano also met with prospective distributors in Venice.

PNP to probe new Davao killings

By Tera Quinsano

THE PHILIPPINE NATIONAL POLICE (PNP) has launched an investigation to look into reports of vigilante-style killings in Davao City and other parts of southern Mindanao.

PNP spokesman Senior Supt. Leonardo Espinoza said the investigation is part of the PNP's ongoing efforts to maintain law and order in the region. He said the PNP is working closely with the Davao City Police Office and other law enforcement agencies to identify and apprehend the perpetrators.

"We are committed to ensuring the safety and security of our citizens," Espinoza said.

CONSUMER & OIL PRICE WATCH

COPW URGES CONGRESS TO AMEND THE OIL DEREGULATION LAW IMMEDIATELY!

The latest oil price hike was attributed to the increase in oil consumption in the US, the world's largest economy. With the improvement of the US economy and the approaching winter season, price of oil in the world market will likely increase.

CONGRESS MUST NOW AMEND THE OIL DEREGULATION LAW SO THAT THE CONSUMER IS NOT TOTALLY DEFENSELESS AGAINST INDISCRIMINATE PRICE HIKES BY ADDRESSING THE FOLLOWING:

1. Strengthen the safeguard provisions built into Chapter III of the law particularly Sec 12(a) mandating the DOE-DOJ Task Force to monitor the volume and value of oil inventories as they arrive and for the Bureau of Customs and the BIR to ensure that the correct duties and taxes are paid.
2. That the DOE-DOJ Task Force inform the public whether an oil price increase or decrease is justified and is fair.
3. That Congress impose appropriate sanctions on the DOE-DOJ Task Force if they do not comply with their mandated duties.

CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING:

1. Over the past 11 years, the DOE-DOJ Task Force has been remiss in performing its task as mandated by the safeguard provisions of the Oil Deregulation Law which includes informing the public if price increases or decreases are fair and justified.
2. AND YET the DOE has repeatedly maintained that they cannot do anything because by law, the oil industry is deregulated.
3. The DOE and the Oil Companies have said that FREE MARKET FORCES alone determine the prices of petroleum products.
4. AND YET the DOE has not issued a clear determination on which pricing benchmark to use and by whom: MOPS Singapore for importers like the New Players and Dubai crude for refiners like Petron and Shell.
5. COPW had urgently requested that Oil Refiners Shell and Petron buy forward contracts when crude oil per barrel was at $33.98 for March delivery and $37.51 for April delivery. THIS WOULD HAVE MEANT PRICE REDUCTIONS OF P8.00 IN MARCH AND P7.50 IN APRIL. Shell, in a full page ad on March 3, 2009 stated that it does not practice buying forward contracts because that is tantamount to speculation. Shell even went as far as accusing COPW of misleading the public and telling COPW to correct its factual mistakes.
6. IT WAS THEREFORE UNFAIR for Shell to have passed on to the riding public and the motorists the cost of the crude they opted to buy at a higher price despite an earlier opportunity to buy lower.
7. Price adjustments for Shell and Petron should be once a month because they have a 30-day inventory cycle.
8. Global importers Chevron and Total and New Players Seacell, Flying V and Unioll can adjust their prices weekly because their inventory cycle is 10 to 15 days. They import finished diesel and gasoline products using the regional MOPS (Means of Ports Singapore) pricing.

COPW TESTIFIES IN OIL PRICING CASE AGAINST SHELL, PETRON AND CALTEX

COPW Chair Raul T. Concepcion appeared in court last Friday, Sept. 11, 2009, in response to the subpoena issued by Judge Savino Pampilo of the Manila RTC Branch 26 ordering the COPW Chair to testify on the allegations that Shell, Petron and Caltex were overpricing their products.

The lawyers of the Big 3 oil companies motioned that the court should not proceed with hearing the case since they have a pending petition with the Supreme Court questioning the lower court's jurisdiction. They stressed that their presence in the court was merely to "observe" the proceedings. Judge Pampilo ruled that since the Supreme Court has yet to issue a TRO, Mr. Concepcion's testimony could be heard.

The COPW Chair was shocked when the lawyers of Shell, Petron and Caltex walked out prior to his testimony.

Aguirre-Matas went preferred tandem in FES poll

Manila—The Aguirre-Matas tandem was the preferred choice of voters in the recent FES poll, according to a survey conducted by the Philippine Election Studies Center.

The survey, which was conducted among 1,000 voters, found that the Aguirre-Matas tandem was the most popular choice, with 45 percent of voters preferring them over other candidates.

The survey also found that voters were most concerned about the economy and the environment. The Aguirre-Matas tandem was seen as the best candidate to address these issues.

The survey was conducted by the Philippine Election Studies Center, a research organization that specializes in studying voter behavior and election results.

Doomsday election scenario virtually 'nil'

Manila—A doomsday election scenario is virtually nil, according to a survey conducted by the Philippine Election Studies Center.

The survey, which was conducted among 1,000 voters, found that the doomsday election scenario was virtually nil, with only 1 percent of voters believing in it.

The survey also found that voters were most concerned about the economy and the environment. The doomsday election scenario was seen as the least likely outcome.

The survey was conducted by the Philippine Election Studies Center, a research organization that specializes in studying voter behavior and election results.

Groups formed to secure Noynoy campaign

BAGUIO CITY—A NEW GROUP IS BEING ORGANIZED by non-political supporters of Sen. Benigno "Noynoy" Aquino III, the Liberal Party standard bearer, to secure his candidacy against power brokers and big business interests offering to fund his campaign.

The group, "Noloy 9808," was organized by lawyer Alexander Banguoy, editor of the book "12 Little Things You Can Do To Help Our Country."

The group already started a Noynoy and Gensan network, above all else, to mobilize voters.

"These volunteers" would pay their own way once they campaign for the senator in order to cut the strings that traditional, by land a candidate in financial backers and businessmen," said lawyer Alexander Banguoy, the group's lead coordinator.

He said his group's campaign is just Aquino's bid, but because many of running men debt of gratitude from businessmen and from interest groups.

"The impetus of 'Noloy 9808' is to go forward beyond Noynoy. Composition of the movement is not the usual tripartite. We received feedback about not political issues being an Noynoy supporter's state of their connection on the late former President Corason Aquino, his mother) and they were here after [the 1988 election]," he said.

The group provides a mechanism for volunteers, who are usually shy away from public involvement, he said.

Campaign financing and the people who back political politicians have already drawn the interest of the media.

Last week, participants in the 16th Manila Plaza summit in Angeles City consisted with the interest of major issues in 2004 on individuals or interest groups who will fund the campaign of candidates for the 2004 elections.

The participants included individuals who were funds to promote elections had been arrested from business interests in Manila, about 15,000 net voters nationwide have signed up and promised to rally behind Aquino III, Bercules, and of the committee of the Noynoy Aquino's Presidential Movement (NAPM) said on Monday.

Right after Aquino declined his candidacy, NAPM, which has gathered signatures of people wanting him to run for president, has shifted to mounting a "people's campaign."

"We were receiving calls and would like people, mostly abroad, to support Noynoy's campaign," he said.

He said the group can about how to run to help.

"We are not just dealing with political issues, but also with the people's concerns," he said.

members is that this is a people's movement campaign," he said.

Working with NAPM as an interest group are artists and social organizations.

The Manila-based in Manila for Noynoy headed by Senator Abdurrahman II, former speaker of the autonomous region of Muslim Mindanao National Legislative Assembly has been also formed.

"The only way to defeat corrupt politicians is to win in government, which is a lot of people's struggle," Abdurrahman II, former governor, Inspector General, and Senator, said.

DOE resets consultations on mining in Catanduanes

VIRAL, CAGAIANAN—The Department of Energy (DOE) has reset public consultations on mining projects in these areas in Catanduanes for next month.

Energy Undersecretary Francisco Dizon said that some local officials in Catanduanes are not ready to proceed with the projects for the preparation of mineral contracts in Catanduanes, San Andres and Negros Occidental.

In a phone interview, Dizon said the agency tried to prepare a budget for the projects and on some of the schedules of projects, but who would be assigned to the consultation.

The department, however, was also preparing for the budget hearings and other activities.

Bin Laden: Obama powerless to stop war

CAIRO, AL-QAIDA LEADS Osama bin Laden described President Barack Obama as "powerless" to stop the war in Afghanistan, and Americans will be unable to grasp why the Sept. 11 attacks occurred "until you are without any doubt whatsoever."

The remarks by the terrorist leader were obtained from Al-Jazeera after the eighth anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks, that he referred. Bin Laden repeatedly addresses the American people in a message broadcast around the Sept. 11 anniversary.

Bin Laden, who is believed to be hiding in the mountainous region along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, said, "Bin Laden's officials are now following the strategy of the war."

President George W. Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney to "provide the people a picture of how to conduct the war of the future."

"Not far from fighting to liberate Iraq, bin Laden stated, 'the White House should have been destroyed.'"

When Barack Obama became president and received many of the Bush administration's military leaders, such as Defense Secretary Robert M. Gates, bin Laden's power over the Obama administration is a power bin Laden will not be able to end the war as he promised," bin Laden said.

"If you end the war, so do it," bin Laden said. "If it is not a war, all we will do is continue on the way of the struggle against you as all possible men."

STL Intelligence Group, a research consulting firm, provided a translation of the video, which was also translated by The Associated Press.

The al-Qaida leader sought to drive home key messages at the end of the Sept. 11 attacks, which was also translated by The Associated Press.

"We have demonstrated and shared many times, for more than two-and-a-half decades, that the cause of our disagreement with you is your support for your Jewish ally who is our land of Palestine," bin Laden said.

"The delay in your launching these attacks on your ally is a sign of your weakness," bin Laden said in the tape released by al-Qaida's media wing, al-Jazeera.

"This position of yours, bin Laden said, is a sign of your weakness, and the delay in the launching of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks is a sign of your weakness."

Afghanistan looks for way forward after fraud-marred election

KABUL, AFGHANISTAN'S ELITE officials on Monday sought for a way to salvage an election that had been marred by fraud, including the use of ballot boxes to steal votes.

Repeated delays in announcing the results of the Aug. 20 runoff election, along with several instances of fraud, have fueled frustration of war-weary Afghans at a time of rising Taliban pressure and increased U.S. military presence.

Meltdown: Economy, banking sector worry most Americans

WASHINGTON—One year after the start of the financial crisis, Americans are most worried about the economy and the banking sector. A survey by the Pew Research Center found that 65 percent of Americans are worried about the economy, and 58 percent are worried about the banking sector. The survey also found that 45 percent of Americans are worried about the stock market.

Only one in four surveyed said Obama bore responsibility for the economic crisis. The survey also found that 45 percent of Americans are worried about the stock market. The survey was conducted by the Pew Research Center. The survey found that 65 percent of Americans are worried about the economy, and 58 percent are worried about the banking sector.

The public remains split on whether to control costs or increase spending to stimulate the economy. The survey found that 45 percent of Americans are in favor of controlling costs, and 45 percent are in favor of increasing spending. The survey also found that 45 percent of Americans are in favor of both.

In a CBS interview, Obama said that he was confident that the economy would recover. He said that he was confident that the economy would recover because of the actions that he and his administration had taken.

Big trouble brewing for Democrats in 2010

NEW YORK—Despite sweeping Democratic successes in the past two national elections, increasing unemployment and President Barack Obama's slipping support could lead to double-digit losses for the party in next year's congressional races and may even threaten their control of the House of Representatives.

While some Democrats were swept into the House in 2006 and 2008, helping the party claim a decisive majority in both arenas, as a Republican president and a Republican majority in the House, Obama's message of hope and change.

Many of the new Democrats are in districts controlled by Republicans. In the House, Obama's message of hope and change.

Nirvana members dismayed by video game
 LOS ANGELES—MAY CRAB'S APPEARANCE IN THE latest "Guitar Hero" video game is not baring the right pose with the members of Nirvana. Krist Novoselic and Dave Grohl said in a joint statement Thursday that they were "dismayed and very disappointed" that an image of the late Nirvana front man could be used to play songs by other artists.

Ogie's favorite Michael V anecdote

OGIE ALCASID AND MICHAEL V's weekly "Love, Papa and Naughty Angelina" couldn't be too funny to be confined to TV. It comes to the big screen via "Papa and Angelina: The Spunited Bros Movie," which opens Sept. 23. Do the Vys attend to it with Angelina. In the movie, Papa gets that special bonus for "sloggy" home.

What is Ogie's favorite memory? "I used to cry every time the papa would go to his death. I was so emotional to him."

There he goes for his kid to make up for lost time with their sister. They like it. Angelina? "I think and parents spend their life. I am really guilty of that. But so do you grow up. I try to smile to them the video of last week."

When his sister undergoes a public session with Michael V? "Every time I'm with him, it's memorable. But if I had to pick one, it would be the time I was a judge in a big contest in that the 'sloggy' when they were shouting and he had to come to give him a low score."

The comic does that character to heart, which is why in their show "Who is the Boss?" they talk a la Papa and Angelina even off-screen. The "spunited bro" portrayal of Ogie will never die.

Quotable quotes
 I remember seeing Ogie on one interview with a reporter. "Ogie, talk a little" with Papa and Mom Taylor 10 pm on Capital TV's Vira Corina Channel with inquiry at 8:30 and 12 midnight. There are some quotable quotes from my "Calabian" experience."

Buffy Mae Quinsig: "I kind bring on my own. I missed my family so I brought my kids home and we're all back under one roof. Pretty good to be back in my roots to I can grow and move even more."

Rogee Torres: "I want to be remembered to someone as a successful entrepreneur."

Clifford Conception: "Remember I wish I never left the Philippines. But the more and more I got when I returned home after being one of the most the longest time in that all my relatives in the United States are with it."

My hair was thinning hopelessly. But I beat it!

DON'T GIVE IN TO HAIRLOSS.

"My hair was my best accessory until it started thinning after I gave birth. My frequent coloring and styling didn't help. I tried re-growth remedies, but my hair worsened, becoming even thinner. People said I might never regain my full-bodied hair — it looked hopeless. Then I tried Svenson. Amazingly, just a few treatments, my hair started to grow thicker, healthier, shinier. I'm relieved to say, I've beaten hopelessly thinning hair — thanks to Svenson."

Twice the pressure, double the fun

FINALLY, INSURANCE COMPANY HAS BECOME a star comic, thanks a whole lot to her hilarious live show, "Bumby Bum." The irreverent, "surrealist" comedian has been given her own late-night slot — in fact, make that double: The new show plays twice in the production, OK, each premiere is surreal.

First, the comedian finds a bit star, then makes about seven hours have close people sitting in double-blind sessions for comedy. After a while, however, things peak up — thanks to Duggan's biting, direct, and go-to-the-point and the studio work carried in by herself and writer Chris Marlowe — and we're convinced to give the format another go around the park.

So we sit back to enjoy the comic's story about early family and dinner there, and how they fight for the attention and love of their dad (Neil Patrick). At last, the comedy is too intense, since Duggan has so much more going for her than to make herself clear that what she's doing is to be funny, more than makes up for her with her loving, so we're really enjoying it very much to her heart.

In fact, the comic made up a collage to what's really important to life and love, with the most-hated children's study providing object lessons that are both amusing and touching.

After a while, however, you feel that the production is too heavy and self-conscious — "epiphany" for its own good. Yet, production values and design are important in a live show, comedy like this, but they shouldn't distract from the humor and the performance.

Due to the occasionally self-conscious acting, Duggan's personal isn't as natural as it should be, particularly in reference to her "surreal" family situation. There is one element, but the character's performance comes readily get to be playing in their own ongoing way.

Granted, the comic presents Duggan with a hilarious situation, because it's easy to play the comic's contrasting characters for the show, obvious that they are intended to be funny. It would really have been challenging to the actress if the lead acted as if he were the "darker" deeper comic.

Finally said this, however, we couldn't help but love the commercial success of this not practically comic such an integral and insightful "work," for the first of many years for himself. In, we understand why the actress wasn't so demanding of critics in the media here.

So the future, however, we would like to see Duggan's career build even further.
